What is Mixed Martial Arts?

Mixed Martial Arts in simplest terms is the pursuit of mastery of multiple styles of striking and grappling martial arts. At Pure MMA we offer multiple styles and we encourage our members to make their martial arts journey their own. Many practitioners choose to focus on mastering one style while others choose to spread their training time out across two or three styles. There is no right or wrong option. The martial arts are about health, wellness, self defense and self improvement and we are honored to provide you a positive, encouraging training environment.

Striking Martial Arts

Muay Thai Kickboxing - Adults and Kids

Widely considered to most comprehensive and effective style of striking, Muay Thai incorporates the concepts using every striking tool the body provides including punches, kicks, knees, and elbows. The Muay Thai program at Pure MMA carries with it influence from other other striking arts like boxing, American kickboxing, and Tae Kwon Do. Classes include warm ups, bag work, pad work and some classes includes varying levels of sparring.

TaeKwonDo - Kids Only

TaeKwonDo is one of the most systematic of Korean traditional martial arts. It is a striking style that incorporates a myriad of kicking, punching, blocking, balance and agility. TaeKwonDo is also an Olympic sport.

Fitness Kickboxing - Adults Only

Grappling Martial Arts

Jiu Jitsu - Adults and Kids

Brazilian Jiu Jitsu is a ground fighting style of martial arts that teaches a practitioner how to use leverage to control an opponent and force them to give up with a variety of “submissions”. Jiu Jitsu is known for giving smaller weaker practitioners the ability to control and even dominate bigger stronger opponent that don’t have a familiarity with any grappling martial arts. Jiu Jitsu incorporates aspects of other style of grappling including Judo, Sambo, and Wrestling.

Judo - Adults and Kids

Judo is one of the oldest and most practiced grappling martial arts around the world. It is an Olympic sport in which athletes attempt to take their opponents to the ground with throws and work to control, pin and apply submissions.
